How many books can you read over the holiday?

Let's share all the books we have read when we get back.

What will the best book be that you read?

Which books will you recommend?

Over the holidays I read....

Christmas holiday homework menu:

Choose one (or more) of the options below to complete over the holidays and share when we are back:

1. Re-write 'Twas the night before Christmas' poem (The Poem - Twas The Night Before Christmas) as your own Christmas poem thinking about what you do to celebrate Christmas or just your own poem inspired by Christmas

2. Build your own Viking long boat - remember the dragon prow and sails. You could even create some Viking figures to go in it. Try to show that the Vikings weren't just raiders but settlers as well. Be as creative as you can be but make sure you get your parents permission to use things from around the house!

3. Create a shoe box museum all about the Vikings and Anglo-Saxons. All you need is a box and then you fill it with artefacts

(you can make replicas from paper, cereal boxes, salt dough, foil etc) and add little fact boxes to go with them

4. Not everyone will be having a present filled, family Christmas this year. Research a charity such as 'Shelter' or 'Operation Christmas Child | Samaritans Purse' or a charity close to your heart and create a poster/powerpoint all about them to share with us so that we can learn what they do to help others less fortunate than us or maybe fundraise for them over the holidays and tell us all about it when we come back.
